EXPRESS ROBBERY.

A New York Central Train Held Up.

MESSENGER SHOT THREE TIMES.

After an Exciting Chase the Desperado is Finally Captured and Landed in Jail—A Detailed Account of the Whole Affair—A Former Robbery Recalled.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Daniel T. McInerney, a messenger in the employ of the American Express company, lies at his home on Waverly place in this city, with three bullet wounds on his person, the result of an encounter with a most desperate train robber.

The American express train which reached this city at 7:15 on the New York Central railroad, left Syracuse Sunday morning at 5 o'clock, very nearly on time, in charge of Conductor Emil Laass and Engineer Caleb Cherry.

About half an hour after the train left Syracuse Messenger McInerney was startled by the sound of breaking glass. Before he could discover its cause a masked man sprang through the broken window and confronted him with a revolver. McInerney drew his weapon, and both men fired at the same time. McInerney missed his mark, but the robber did not. His bullet penetrated McInerney's left hand, and it was followed by two others, one of which entered his leg, and the other grazed his forehead. The robber knocked him senseless with the butt of his revolver and went at the packages in the car. The story is told by Conductor Laass as follows:

Between Weedsport and Jordan, the conductor, E. Laass, thought that he heard the air signal sound, but as no one else had heard it he paid no attention to it. In a few minutes it sounded again, this time unmistakably, and the conductor said: "There is something wrong in the express car ahead where McInerney is alone." He and a brakeman, H. A. Culver, accordingly went to the platform between the two cars.

The conductor rapped at the door, but received no reply. Then climbing on the iron handrail, he peered into the car through the opening that the bell-rope ran through. He saw nothing of McInerney, but instead saw a strange man standing in the car over whose head was drawn a red hood which covered all of his face but the nose and eyes and fell below his chin to his breast.

Stepping on the platform the conductor said to the brakeman, "there is something wrong in there," and signalled for the train to slow up, then both he and the brakeman leaned off the platform on the south side of the car, and at the same time the red-hooded head of the robber protruded from the door of the express car and a voice said: "G—d d—n shove her ahead," and before either could reply a bullet whizzed past their ears. Both sprang back into the coach, and the brakeman locked the front door.

The train was running very slowly, and without stopping it the conductor directed the rear brakeman to take both the red and white lanterns and go back to Jordan, signal any train he might meet, and telegraph to the city concerning the affair. The train was then swung rapidly ahead, but on nearing Port Byron again slowed up on account of the semaphore being set against it. Arriving at the station the conductor set the brakes on his train and jumped on to the depot platform and called the telegraph operator. Presently McInerney appeared in the door of his car and called for help, saying that he was wounded and was all alone in the car. On hearing this the conductor supposed that the robber had become frightened and left the train while it had been running slowly, but future developments were to show him how much he was mistaken.

Another messenger was put in the car to care for the wounded man till they should reach Lyons. The conductor and his crew returned to the rear coach and the train proceeded on its way to Lyons. When the train pulled into the depot of the last named station McInerney was taken off and cared for and then the train backed up to take water. The conductor remained on the depot platform talking of the occurrence to the station agent and some others who happened to be at the station, stating that he thought the robber had left the train before reaching Port Byron, when the agent interrupted him with the remark that he had seen a man jump off his train while it was standing at the depot.

While Conductor Laass was looking over his train, just previous to its pulling out of Syracuse, he had seen a man loitering near it, and had sharply scrutinized the face, as it was a new one around the depot to him, but he supposed that it was some one on duty there, and so thought nothing of it; now as the agent made this remark he turned around, and found himself face to face with that same individual.

The man had evidently gotten off the further side of the train while it stood at the depot, had walked around both train and station, come down the street, as if from the town, and was now leaning coolly and carelessly against the building. Turning to the brakeman who stood near, Mr. Laass said: "Didn't we see this man in Syracuse?" to which the brakeman replied: "Yes, that's him; that's your man, boys."

With that all made a rush for him, but they had reckoned without their host, for the stranger, pointing a brace of revolvers at the crowd, said: "Oh, no, boys; keep easy and don't be in a hurry." He then backed up a little ways, keeping the crowd at bay with his threatening pistols, then turned and ran across the tracks to the express train, which was on track No. 2, and tried to uncouple the engine of that train. He could not do it, however, and crossed to track No. 3 where a coal train drawn by one of the heavy "hog" engines, No. 511, was standing. Leaping on the front car he uncoupled the engine from the train, climbed over the water tank, and thrusting his revolver into the faces of the startled engineer and fireman he hissed: "You G—d d—n son of a b—, if you prefer your lives to this engine, hide, d—n you, hide," and they hid. Then he pulled the throttle wide open and sailed away, whistling as he came to the crossings with all the accuracy of an experienced engineer.

As soon as the conductor had recovered from his surprise, he uncoupled the engine from the train and, taking with him a switchman, who had in the meantime procured a loaded double-barrelled shotgun, he started in pursuit. Near the canal bridge, between Newark and Lyons, the fugitive saw that the light engine pursuing would soon overtake his heavier one so he stopped his engine, reversed it and flew down the track to meet his pursuers. They saw him coming and got down in the bottom of the cab. It was well they did, for as he flew past he let go two shots through the window of the cab, while the switchman discharged one of the barrels of his gun at the swiftly passing engine of the robber. The shots of neither pursuers nor pursued, however, took effect, and the conductor reversed his engine and backed after the fleeing fugitive.

Again the desperado reversed his engine and came toward those who were so hotly pursuing him. Again the pursuing crouched in the bottom of the cab. Again the shots of the desperado rang out, and as before the balls passed through the window of the cab and whistled harmlessly over the heads of those crouching at the bottom of it. The switchman fired his last remaining charge, but from his crouching position his aim at the fast flying engine could but be inaccurate and the shot was but a random one, and the bullets rattled without avail against the iron sides of the rapidly passing iron monster. On up the road the engine, bearing the daring desperado, flew, carrying him each moment farther away from his pursuers.

The men on the pursuing engine held a council of war and concluded that, unaided as they were any further attempt at pursuit and capture of the robber would be worse than madness, for he was well armed and past experience had taught them that he carried his weapons for use, and would use them if the emergency required, so they backed their engine back to Lyons.

The fugitive kept on but soon found that his steam was giving out and at Blue Cut, about two and a half miles east of Newark, he deserted the engine and ordered the switchman, stationed at the cut, at the point of his revolver, to take the engine back to Lyons, and the command was quickly obeyed.

As soon as word was received in this city that an express robbery had been committed, and it was learned that the desperado was somewhere within a few miles of Lyons, preparations were made to have Rochester detectives join in the pursuit. Depot Master Warren telephoned to the police station and sent a carriage after Detective Lapointe. Detectives Kavanaugh and Furtherer at once went to the central station, and were soon followed by Chief Hayden. Engine 691, in charge of Engineer Charles Mackley, was placed at the service of the officers.

The details of the pursuit were thus told to a United Press reporter by Chief Hayden, who returned to Rochester at 4:50 p. m. "When I came down to the police station Sunday morning I was informed that there had been an express robbery committed on the Central, and that word had been sent to have Rochester officers detailed on the case. I started immediately for the Central station, Detectives Furtherer and Kavanaugh having preceded me. At the depot we found Detective LaPointe. We waited for the arrival of the train on which the robbery was committed, which was about an hour, and after seeing the men and learning what we could in regard to the robbery, boarded an engine and made the run to Blue Cut in thirty-five minutes.

"We had telegraphed to Newark to have a team meet us, but when we arrived there there was no team to be found. We were told by the crew of a freight train that the robber had been seen a short distance east, and we went down the track, and thus valuable time was lost, the man proving to be another individual entirely. We went to several houses and tried to get a horse before we succeeded. Finally we found a farmer who consented to drive us for a short distance at least. In the meantime we had heard that, in regard to the desperado's course after he left the engine at Blue Cut, taking the road leading south he went to the house of Samuel Goetzmann; which is not far from the tracks, and said that there had been a train robbery committed, and that he was a Pinkerton detective in pursuit of the robbers.

"The farmer listened to his story with intense interest, but told him that it would be impossible for him to let him have a horse. Time was precious, and the fellow had no longer to argue with Mr. Goetzmann, so hauling his revolver out he told him to give him a horse. This put a different aspect on affairs, and, going to the barn, the farmer brought out a horse and blanket, and the fellow was off. We followed in pursuit, I should think, about four miles on the road running south until we reached the house of a farmer by the name of Beals, where we heard from the man again. In his flight he had no doubt driven rather hard, and after going three or four miles his horse began to tire, and he stopped at Mr. Beal's to get a fresh one. Here he told the same story that he did at the other farmhouse, and asked for a horse and cutter, having had enough of horseback riding. Mr. Beal informed him that he had no outfit that he would let him take. The robber did not stop to repeat his request, but, pulling out his pistol, fired two shots so close to Beal's head that his face was blackened by the powder. The horse and cutter were brought out without further parleying, and leaving the other horse with Mr. Beal, the fellow started off again.

"When we reached Mr. Beal's, the man who had been driving us refused to go any further, but a gentleman from Lyons took Detective LaPointe and myself in his rig and Detectives Kavanaugh and Furtherer had the horse which had been sent on from Newark in response to our telegram. The farmers in the neighborhood were now beginning to join in the pursuit and several teams had come over from Lyons. In the party were the sheriff of the county and Deputy Sheriff Jerry Collins.

"After tracing the robber about four miles to the south, we found that he had turned to the east and then again to the south, travelling in all probability ten miles. Coming to Benton's swamp, he left the horse at the side of the road struck in the snow and we closed in upon him. Deputy Sheriff Collins and his men were on the west side of the swamp, Detectives Kavanaugh and Furtherer on the north, detective LaPointe and myself on the south, and there were others on the east side.

"It was a little before noon when the party on the west saw the fellow secreted behind a stone wall. They expected that he would open fire on them and were prepared for almost anything but the fellow evidently realized that it was up with him and that it would be just as well and perhaps better to surrender. He called out to Deputy Collins that he was unarmed and put his revolver on the wall and told him that if he wanted to speak with him to come up. The deputy accordingly walked up to the wall, and reaching over, secured his man, who offered no resistance whatever.

"We drove over to Lockville and had dinner. While there I had quite a talk with the prisoner. I told him that I had been doing a good deal of shooting, and he replied that he guessed he had not hurt any one. I informed him as to the condition of the express messenger, and he seemed to be pleased to learn that he was injured no worse, saying that McInerney had fought for all he was worth and had shown lots of sand. He told me that he had opened several packages, but did not find what he wanted, as it was money that he was looking for.

"In the course of our conversation I casually said: 'Perry, you must be very tired?'

"What's that?' he inquired, suddenly facing me.

"I said that you must be very tired?'

"Yes, but what was it you called me?'

"I called you Perry; that's your name, is it?'

"No sir," he replied, 'my name is Cross, William Cross, and I came from New Mexico.'

"I asked Cross or Perry, or whoever he may prove to be, how long he had been in Syracuse and he told me that he had been there three or four days, but would not say where he had stopped. He also said to me while talking about the robbery that it was not his intention to kill the messenger, but only to maim him so that he could not make a resistance."

"After we had our dinner we drove to Lyons and the prisoner was lodged in the Wayne county jail at that place. He is five feet six or seven inches in height, rather slight in build and will not weigh over 140 pounds. He wears a short brown beard, was dressed in a suit of dark clothes, and had a black derby hat. He is apparently about twenty-five years of age. He was armed to the teeth. He had three revolvers, one of them a very heavy one, and had on a belt filled with cartridges."

The chief is almost certain that the prisoner is Perry, the man wanted for the Utica express robbery a few months ago, as he answers the description given of Perry. He was an expert and had a great outfit in his satchel which was found on the engine which he ran to Newark. On the engine were found three bale hooks and ropes with snaps, and a red flannel mask, a brace and bit, a combination safe handle and several other articles. It is presumed that the robber used the bale hooks and ropes to let himself in the window by attaching them to one side of the car from the roof, and allowing the rope ladder to extend down the other side of the car.

Detective O'Neill, of the New York Central railroad, and Detective Ennis, of Syracuse, visited Lyons last night and identified the robber as Perry, who is wanted for the express robbery at Utica, committed last September. There is a reward of $1,000 offered for his capture by the American Express company.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED.

A Man and Woman, Beating Their Way, Instantly Killed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22.—The Big Four passenger train, due here from Cincinnati at 10:30 o'clock last night, was wrecked just east of this city by running into an open switch at the Belt crossing. A section of a freight train was standing upon the switch some distance ahead, and, seeing a collision inevitable, the engineer and fireman jumped from the engine and escaped with a few slight bruises. A moment later the engine collided with the freight cars, bunching up and throwing the mail and baggage coaches and the engine and tender of the passenger from the track.

A man and woman were known to have been riding upon the front of the baggage car, with their feet resting upon the tender, and were supposed to be under the wreckage.

The passengers were at once transferred, and a wrecking train was sent to the scene, but it was 5 o'clock this morning before the bodies were recovered. The man and woman were husband and wife, and appear to have been well known along the road as a pair of tramps, and seen to have been allowed to ride without hindrance. From letters found upon the man his name is supposed to be Thomas Hobley, and the woman's maiden name was Elvinn George. Her parents live in Grand Rapids, and she and Hobley were married at Chicago in September last.

Forecast of the Work of Congress.

THE PROGRAM OF THE WEEK.

Unfinished Business in the Senate—Contested Election Case to Be Disposed Of. No Order of Business Arranged in the House—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The senate has more than enough unfinished business on hand to occupy it all the coming week, without entering upon the consideration of other matters with reference to which notice has been given. The Idaho contested election case has the floor. Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, is prepared with a speech in favor of the contestant, Mr. Claggett, which, as he announced on Thursday, he wants a full senate to hear.

Mr. Vance, who takes the same side as Mr. Stewart on different grounds, is also prepared to address the senate. Should Chairman Hoar, of the committee on privileges and elections, be sufficiently recovered to resume his seat as expected, he desires to make a few remarks in favor of the sitting senator, Mr. Dubois. Mr. Callom, through whose influence Mr. Dubois was appointed United States marshal in Idaho, also desires to say something in favor of the contestee. Although the points involved in the case are purely technical and non-partisan, and the result is accepted, even by Claggett's friends, as a foregone conclusion in favor of Dubois, there is every probability that the debate may be prolonged for several days, as there are local questions of Idaho politics, uninteresting to the general public, but regarded as of much importance out in Idaho, which enter into the disposition of the case and seem to make oratory essential.

The Paddock pure food bill has the right of way when the Idaho matter has been disposed of. There will undoubtedly be considerable debate on its provisions. A bill to provide a government building for every postoffice where the annual receipts exceed $2,000 has been made the special order for this week, but it is not likely that it will be taken up for action for some little time at least. Mr. Chandler has intimated that he desires to call up Governor's Palmer's resolution in regard to the election of senators by the people for the purpose of opposing its immediate adoption, and, according to the admission of Mr. Mitchell, the subcommittee on judiciary is prepared to report favorably a bill on this subject.

With the probable return of Mr. Hoar to his seat in the senate action by that committee upon the judicial nominations of Judge Woods, of Indiana, and others upon which a strong fight in executive session is inevitable, may be anticipated.

There has been no order of business arranged for the house for this week, but it is reasonably certain that the Craig-Stewart contested election case of Pennsylvania and the Indian appropriation bill will be disposed of, if not other measures are reached. Mr. O'Ferrill will call up the Craig-Stewart case on Tuesday. Its consideration will probably not occupy the house more than two days. As soon as the election case is out of the way Mr. Peel will ask the house to resume consideration of the Indian appropriation bill—which is now the unfinished business. It is thought by leaders of the house that this measure can be passed after about one day's further consideration. Friday, under the rules, is private bill day and will probably be occupied in considering measures on the private calendar.

ENORMOUS WOLF HUNT.

Five Thousand Men, Women and Children Engage in the Affair.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 22.—At 9 o'clock Saturday morning an enormous wolf hunt started over Crawford and Bourbon counties, in Kansas. As a result about 300 wolves were killed. Both counties and others adjoining were scoured by over 5,000 men, women and children, armed in all conceivable ways. Two thousand jack rabbits were also captured in the general round-up.

Owing to an error in signaling there was a break in the line which reduced the number of captures, but another hunt will take place next Saturday to finally wind up the foxes and wolves of southeastern Kansas. There was but one accident, Thomas Perkins, of Farlington, being very seriously bitten by a couple of wolves. He will not recover, as he was torn fearfully by the infuriated animals.

THE MEN ARE OUT.

Threatened Street Car Strike in Indianapolis Takes Place.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 22.—Another strike of the street railway employees was inaugurated Sunday morning, and not a car has been permitted to move on any of the lines since then. An effort was made during the morning to bring out a car on the Brightwood line, but the strikers showed determined front, and the company soon concluded that it would be best to abandon the attempt.

There was a full meeting of the brotherhood yesterday morning, and when the question of striking was put the vote was unanimous in favor of tying up the lines.

President Frenzel yesterday addressed a letter to Mayor Sullivan, outlining the situation and demanding police protection. If this is not given he says he will hold the city responsible for any loss that may thereby occur to the company. He recites the fact that the strikers have grounded the electric wires on all lines, and have threatened violence if any attempt is made to move the cars.

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1892.

GOVERNOR McKINLEY had a good deal to say in his inaugural address, but that isn't deterring the Republican Legislature of Ohio from fixing up the Congressional districts of that state after a "crazy quilt" pattern. Under the arrangement as it now stands, it will take over 71,000 Democrats to elect a Congressman, in that State but only 24,000 Republicans. But New York's Democratic Legislature can square things to some extent.

MIKE BOLAN is no longer Warden of the penitentiary. The Sinking Fund Commissioners held a meeting Friday afternoon, removed Bolan and elected in his stead Sam Norman, the Assistant Secretary of State, and this is the way they worked it over Brother Hale. He was pledged to Bolan, and so the Governor put up as a candidate, Sam Norman, one of Hale's best friends, and a man from his own county. Hale wouldn't vote against him, and his vote, together with the Governor's and Secretary Headley's, did the work. Attorney General Hendricks stood up for his man to the last, and Auditor Norman would have done the same had he been present, but he was away on business.—Commercial Gazette special.

Republicans, Take Notice.

To the Republicans of Mason County and the Ninth Congressional District: In pursuance of the call of the State Central Committee you will please have the Republicans of your county select twenty-three (23) delegates to attend a district delegate convention to be held at Louisville at 9 o'clock, on the morning of the State convention and a like number to attend the State convention which meets at 12 m. on March 30th, in the city of Louisville.

It will be the duty of the district convention to select district delegates to the Minneapolis convention, district electors and a member of the State Central Committee for this district.

The delegates to the district convention may act as delegates to the State convention. LEWIS LEBUS, Chairman.

SUNDAY morning at the early mass at St. Patrick's Church the young ladies of the B. V. M. sodality—about 60 in all—wearing their white veils, ribbons and medals approached the altar in a body for communion. The effect was very impressive and no doubt that many a tender chord of memory was touched in the hearts of all present. The music was under the able direction of the gifted Miss M. O'Donnell and was sweet and inspiring. The altar of the Blessed Virgin never looked more beautiful and radiant. The venerable pastor Rev. J. B. Glorieux addressed the Sodality in his usual kind, encouraging way, and each word seemed freighted with consolation and true spiritual joy. As director of the Sodality Father Glorieux takes a lively interest in all concerning it and is ever ready to lend his assistance. Under his kind direction and the gentle care of the Sisters of the Visitation the Sodality will advance in virtue and increase in numbers.

Attention, Sir Knights.

As Staple as Coffee.

"Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is as staple as coffee in this vicinity. It has done an immense amount of good since its introduction here."—A. M. Nordell, Maple Ridge, Minn. For sale by Power & Reynolds.

THOMPSON & McATEE are to-day receiving a car-load of barbed and smooth wire for fencing direct from the factory of Oliver & Roberts, Pittsburg, Pa. This wire is well known. It is second to no wire manufactured in the United States. The firm are offering the wire at greatly reduced prices. If in need of anything in their line call and see them.

THE proceeds of the old soldiers supper is not for the soldiers only. The train to Washington City next fall will be chartered and others will be invited to go with them to the National Capital. The fare will be so low that you can't resist. Come then and patronize the bazaar and supper liberally. At the Neptune Hall every day and night this week. f22dtf

JAMES D. RAY and Miss May Cotton of Madison County were married at Aberdeen Saturday night. This is the couple who caused a shooting near Richmond on Thursday. Nat Cotton, the father of the girl, shot his brother-in-law, Will Hondren, who was trying to help the couple to get married. The father wanted her to marry a Mr. Whittaker. The bride is only fourteen.

What New York Critics Say of Margaret Reid.

Mention was made Friday of the success achieved by Margaret Reid Kackley in her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, as Ophelia in "Hamlet," a few evenings since. The Daily Press of that city says "the new Ophelia sang her opening duet with Mr. Lassalle with an assurance of note that was remarkable, and which won the approval of the kindly-intentioned house immediately. * * * She has a most promising mezzo soprano voice, and her performance contained many evidences of intelligence and musical instinct."

The Sun after a careful criticism of Miss Reid's voice says: "The most brilliant hit of writing and the most touching scene are, of course, the 'Mad Scene.' Miss Reid sang the music, whose demands are great upon an artist, with exceeding sweetness and facility. She received a splendid tribute of applause after it, and it is fair to presume that no debutante ever had a heartier welcome or warmer encouragement than did the little lady last evening. Her self-possession and sang-froid were extraordinary and very piquant. She will undoubtedly be heard soon and often again, for her intelligence, if we do not mistake her, is such that she will before long have a varied repertoire, and there is something about her that attracts an audience."

Margaret Mather Wants a Divorce.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 22.—It was learned last night that Margaret Mather, the well-known actress, entered suit for divorce from her husband, Emil Haberkorn, in Chicago last week. Mr. Haberkorn, who is leader of the orchestra at the Duquesne theater, in this city, was seen last night. He said he had not heard of the suit, but would not be surprised to get the notice at any time. He will make no opposition to the divorce proceedings, which, he said, would likely be based on the grounds of desertion.

Went to Sleep on the Track.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Feb. 22.—The mangled remains of a man supposed to be named Depew, of Peekskill, N. Y., were found about 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the Baltimore and Ohio yards here. His head, arms and one foot were severed from his body, which was fearfully cut and bruised. It is thought he was drinking and fell asleep on the tracks.

Fifty-Three Days Without Food.

TRENTON, Feb. 22.—Peter Smith, seventy years old, died here yesterday of exhaustion. He was taken with the grip about fifty three days ago, and since that time he had not tasted a mouthful of food. One of his marked symptoms was his aversion for food, and since his illness he has existed on a small quantity of diluted milk.

Woolen Mills Burned.

WARSAW, Feb. 22.—Wiener's worsted mills at Lodz, Poland, have been destroyed by fire. The loss is 400,000 roubles.

For the German Navy.

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—The reichstag has voted 28,000,000 marks for the navy.

Locked Up for a Thief.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 22.—Abram Strousberg was arrested here last evening by State Detective J. Frank Patterson on the charge of stealing $2,500 worth of clothing four years ago from Simon Levy's store at Seabright. His bail was fixed at $3,000, in default of which he was committed to the Monmouth county jail at Freehold.

Stabbed by His Wife.

DULUTH, Feb. 22.—Edmund Welsh, manager of the Parlor variety theater, lies in St. Mary's hospital with a hole two inches deep in his back. Early yesterday morning his wife, Kitty Welsh, stabbed him. The particulars are withheld. He will recover. Kitty and Edmund Welsh are well known variety actors.

Badly Mixed Up.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—Sixty-five-year-old George Smiley, of Harrisburg, has just married thirty-seven-year-old Miss Annie Carman, of southeastern Missouri, in this city. The bride is the youngest sister of the wife of the man T. M. Smiley, son of George Smiley, and by this peculiar union the bride becomes the mother-in-law of her elder sister and the latter the daughter-in-law of her youngest sister. The father and son are brothers-in-law. The five children of T. M. Smiley (the son) are now the grandchildren of their late aunt.

Fight at a Dance.

VANDALIA, Ills., Feb. 22.—A bloody fight occurred Saturday night at a dance at George Lang's, in Lone Grove township, in the southeastern part of this county, between the Birchall brothers on one side and the Hasbrook brothers on the other. Axes and knives were the weapons used, and in the fight one of the Birchalls and one of the Hasbrooks sustained injuries that will likely prove fatal.

MR. GLENN CHURN is confined to his home with a very painful injury to one of his feet, received by stepping on a nail a few days ago.

La Grippe!

The tendency of this disease toward pneumonia is what makes it dangerous. La Grippe requires precisely the same treatment as a severe cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of severe colds. This Remedy effectually counteracts the tendency of the disease to result in pneumonia, provided that proper care be taken to avoid exposure when recovering from the attack. Careful inquiry among the many thousands who have used this remedy during the epidemics of the past two years has failed to discover a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in pneumonia. 25 cent, 50 cent and $1 bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds.

THE MARKETS.

Cincinnati Tobacco Market.

(Friday.)

The offerings were very heavy, this being the second largest Friday's sale in this market. There was a firm market, without marked changes from the preceding day. Good and fine leaf (old) was in active demand at full prices. Medium and red tobaccos were in only fair request. An active demand continues for common trash, but no nondescript and full prices are paid. For all grades of new there was a good, firm market.

Mr. G. V. Payne, of Georgetown, Ky., sold at the Walker Warehouse a crop lot of 9 hds (new) at $3.95, $14.75, $16.75, $18.75, $21.75, $22 averaging $17.

Of the 351 hds (new) 5 sold from $3.10 to $3.55, 50 from $4 to $4.95, 134 from $6 to $7.95, 36 from $8 to $9.75, 77 from $10 to $14.75, 34 from $15 to $19.75 and 6 from $20 to $22.

Of the 400 hds (old) 27 sold from $1 to $3.90, 101 from $4 to $5.95, 135 from $6 to $7.95, 77 from $8 to $9.90, 78 from $10 to $14.75, 33 from $15 to $19.75 and 9 from $20 to $24.

HAPPY MEDIUM

MAMBRINO PATCHEN.

HAPPY MEDIUM, the sire of seventy-three in 2:30 list, including the great Nancy Hanks 2:09, that trotted the three fastest consecutive heats ever trotted in a race. She defeated the great Allerton and all of the crack trotters of 1891, never having lost but one heat. Nine of Happy Medium's sons sired thirty-one 2:30 performers last year. One of his sons, Pilot Medium, sired seventeen, making thirty for him in the list at twelve years of age, which is unequalled by any other horse. He has only a few sons that have been in the stud long enough to demonstrate their worth, but this shows that they are coming to the front fast. He had only one rival, and that the great Electioneer.

MAMBRINO PATCHEN, the sire of nineteen in 2:30 list. He has thirty-eight sons, with ninety-four in the list and fourteen in 2:30. His daughters have produced sixty-eight from 2:15 to 2:30, seventeen in 2:30; sires by sons, eighteen; sires from mares by sons, eight; sires from daughters one hundred and fifty-eight—thirty-three in 2:30—among them the great Allerton, 2:09 1/2; Axtel, 2:12; Mary Marshall, 2:13 1/2; Pat Downing, 2:18; and in other generations sixty-two, making in all four hundred and ninety-two in the 2:30 list, and ninety-one in the 2:30 list. One hundred and ninety-four of these entered the list in 1891. There are only two horses that ever equaled it. They were George Wilkes and Almont. Does any one doubt that the union of these two great families, Happy Medium and Mambrino Patchen, will produce speed? I have it in my horse.

PTOLEMY!

PTOLEMY, by Happy Medium; first dam (Patsey F., the dam of Waymart 2:27 1/2), by Mambrino Patchen 38; second dam by Hlatoga, the sire of Chief, the sire of Defiance, 2:17 1/2; Onward, 2:24; Defiance, 2:24; Cairo, 2:26; Flora, 2:30; the dams of Tempest, 2:19; Mount Vernon, 2:21; Old Nick, 2:23; Lottie M., 2:24; Honesty, 2:25 1/2; Sunflower, 2:25.

PTOLEMY is a beautiful bay, 16 1/2 hands high, has trotted quarters on the Maysville track in 38 1/2 seconds, with very little training, after serving fifty-six mares. He will stand at my farm at Tuckahoe, Mason County, Ky., at $4.00 to insure a living colt, or $25 the season.

Mares bred and kept by the mouth at usual prices. Address me at Tuckahoe, Ky. f22dt

WHO WILL IT BE?

Comments of Several Papers on the Coming Congressional Contest in This District.

Says the Augusta Chronicle: "We notice the friends of Speaker Moore, of Harrison, Rolla Hart, of Fleming, Hanson Kennedy, of Nicholas, and Col. Moore, of Catlettsburg, are feeling the public's pulse as to their respective chances for the Democratic nomination for Congress, from this district. They are all good and true men, and we want to serve notice on the honorable gentlemen that whoever carries old Bracken over the present Congressman, the Hon. Thos. H. Paynter, will have to be a hustler from way back, for his friends are legion and scattered all over the county."

Greenup Gazette: "Do those politicians that are reaching out for Hon. T. H. Paynter's Congressional scalp comprehend what they are undertaking? Mr. Paynter will not down at their bidding, and before his scalp is removed a number of their dead bodies, figuratively speaking, will be laying around as mementos of the political contest."

Catlettsburg Democrat: "The contest for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this district has fairly begun and if there is no change in the formation of the district the woods will be full of candidates before the convention meets. The names of the prospective candidates make an interesting list for the study of those of a political turn of mind. According to the latest returns the entries are: Hon. Thos. H. Paynter, of Greenup, the sitting member, Hon. Geo. T. Halbert, of Lewis, Hon. Rolla Hart, of Fleming, Judge G. S. Wall, of Mason, Hon. Hanson Kennedy, of Nicholas, Hon. S. C. Bascom, of Bath, and Hon. Geo. W. Castle, of Lawrence, with several counties to hear from. A number of leading Democrats in this and other counties are trying to induce Judge S. S. Savage, of Ashland, to allow his name to go before the convention, but as the Judge is in business up to the eyes, making money and lots of it, he will be slow to quit business for politics. However, Judge Savage, who is justly recognized as the Henry Clay of the Ninth district, is not entirely averse to Congressional honors and before the harvest season is over he may yield to the pressure of his friends and enter the contest, in which event Boyd County will send one hundred unarmed enthusiastic Democrats to the convention to instruct the unsophisticated with respect to the ability, the availability and fitness of their candidate."

Referring to the above from the Catlettsburg Democrat, the Carlisle Mercury says: "If Mr. Kennedy has any idea of entering the coming race for Congress he has been very careful to say nothing about it to his friends. There is an evident desire on the part of many people in the district to honor him in this direction, but so far as appearances go he seems at present content in the enjoyment of a lucrative law practice."

Here and There.

Mrs. J. T. Kackley is visiting relatives at Covington.

Miss Mattie Oldham is at home after a protracted visit at Cynthiana and Paris.

Mrs. R. K. Hart, of Fleming, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Frazee.

Mrs. James Cullen and son are spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Bowman, of Newport.

Miss Mollie Daly has returned from a very pleasant visit to friends and relatives in Central Kentucky.

Mrs. Lizzie Wadsworth, who has been teaching music at a college at Bristol, Tenn., is spending on few days with her relatives in this city.

Miss Maggie Green of Louisville, who has been the pleasant guest of Miss Agnes Kane for several weeks, left for Lexington to-day where she will visit friends and relatives before returning home.

For the Farmer.

Mr. John A. Coburn brought in from the Mt. Carmel neighborhood last week a sample ear of a new variety of corn grown by Mr. Robert T. Marshall. It is known as the India corn, and in color is almost black—a very dark brown. The cob is small, and the grain large and smooth, resembling what is known as the flint corn. The new variety is very prolific and is a good stock corn.

River News.

The Scotia passed down this morning loaded to the water's edge with freight.

The Bostona for Pomeroy and Scotia for Pittsburg will pass up to-night. The latter will be late.

The Bonanza, Stanley and Congo are this afternoon and evening's packets for Cincinnati and the Telegraph will pass down to-night.

THE SULLIVAN CASE.

The Court of Appeals Reverses the Judgment of the Mason Circuit Court.

The Judgment of the Mason Circuit Court in the case of the Commonwealth against Samuel C. Sullivan was reversed Saturday by the Court of Appeals. Owing to the defendant's illness, a mandate was, by consent, issued immediately in order that he may be released from jail on bail.

The defendant was convicted at the October term of the Circuit Court of killing Thomas A. Broshears, and given a sentence of two years. His father who was indicted with him was acquitted. That was their third trial. The first resulted in a hung jury. On the second trial the father was given a sentence of six years and the son eleven years. A new trial was granted them, which took place last October and resulted as stated above.

The indictment against the son will come up again at the April term of the Circuit Court for trial.

MR. DANIEL PERRINE, of the First National Bank, is ill with the grippe.

Now is the time to buy pottery goods, china, glass, queensware, stoves and tinware at ruinous prices, as W. L. Thomas & Bro. are closing out their immense stock.

The people have an opportunity to buy goods of W. L. Thomas & Brother at lower prices than ever offered before. The stock must go, as they have to give up their store room in a very short time.

A SPECIAL session of the Supreme Council of the 33^d Scottish Rite Masons will be held at Cincinnati, to-day. Among the distinguished Masons who will attend is Mr. W. LaRue Thomas, of this city.

Mrs. NANNIE ROSS, of Louisville, President of the State Rebekah, I. O. O. F., recently organized a lodge of twenty-five members at Frankfort, and assisted in initiating twenty-six members into Hill Lodge at Lexington.

The diamond rings, diamond pins, diamond ear-drops, diamond studs and diamond necklaces at Ballenger's jewelry store are as lovely and as elegant as any ever seen. For anything in the diamond line go to Ballenger.

BEING compelled to give up their store room about the first of March, W. L. Thomas & Brother have made a still further reduction in their prices and are now offering any thing in their immense stock at prices never before offered in this market.

A LOUISVILLE paper states that the L. and N. people will soon build a $90,000 depot at Montgomery, Ala. The company ought to improve its depot at this place. Maysville deserves something better than the old barn-like rattletrap of a structure that has stood for years at the corner of Bridge and Third.

Notice.

Applicants for charter S. of V. will meet at G. A. R. hall in Cox Building, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock to attend to particular business.

Railway News.

The earnings of the Chesapeake and Ohio for the second week in February were $107,596.01, an increase of $17,951.73.

Big Four earnings for the same period are $246,223.93, a decrease of $10,024.33, as compared with the same week last year.

For the Children.

Our readers will notice the advertisements in these columns of Chamberlain & Co., Des Moines, Iowa. From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our children and we are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost and are recommending it every day.—Centerville (S. MASON CIRCUIT COURT.

J. L. Horton, Plaintiff.
R. R. Maltby, adm'r, &c., Defendants.

Pursuant to a judgment in the above styled cause, I will offer for sale on Saturday, February 27, 1892, at 2 o'clock p. m., on the premises, to the highest and best bidder, upon a credit of six and twelve months, sixty acres of land, owned by the late Mrs. Lucy M. Hunter, and situated on the Washington pike three miles from Mayville. Well watered, under a good fence and in a high state of cultivation. Said land has thereon a modern and commodious frame dwelling house, a large tobacco barn, a good stable and outbuildings. Having also a young orchard of well selected fruit just coming into bearing, and being a high, healthy and splendid location, it is a delightful home for anyone desiring a small farm in a good community. Possession given at once.

A Negro Rapist Meets a Horrible Death.

THE VICTIM APPLIES THE TORCH

Ten Minutes of Writting Agony and the Friend is Dead—From Four to Six Thousand People Witness the Startling Denouement of the Terrible Crime.

St. Louis, Feb. 23.—A special to The Republic from Texarkana, Ark., says: F. Coy, the negro brute who on last Saturday committed the fiendish crime of rape on the person of Mrs. Henry Jewell, a respectable farmer's wife, with a five months old child at the breast, at her home Saturday, three miles south-east of this city, Saturday afternoon answered for his awful crime by a horrible death by fire. In the presence of 6,000 people he was burned at the stake.

When Mr. Jewell left his home on Saturday last, after dinner, to come to town for the transaction of some necessary business, he left his young wife, with her cooing babe in her arms, in the best of health and spirits, little dreaming when he kissed her goodbye of the terrible fate that awaited her during his absence. Shortly after the husband's departure a negro appeared at the door and asked the whereabouts of Mr. Jewell, and the unsuspecting woman informed him that he had gone to town. The negro gave his name as Davis, and that he had some hogs to sell to Mr. Jewell. A considerable conversation was held between them, and the woman thus had a good opportunity, while not under excitement, to note the general personal appearance of the negro.

After the negro had gone Mrs. Jewell concluded to visit a neighbor half a mile distant, and went out to lock the door, when the negro, who was in hiding, sprang from his place of concealment, seized her by the throat, and, after a desperate struggle, succeeded in accomplishing his diabolical purpose. He then dragged the fainting creature into the barn, where he kept her for about an hour, assaulting her repeatedly. Finally, when he was making ready to go, he took up the gun which he carried, and yielding to her pleadings, left her and disappeared in the woods.

When the husband returned home he lost no time in giving the alarm, and in a short time scores of men were scouring the country in all directions, and during the night two negroes answering the general description given by Mrs. Jewell were jailed here, but when taken before her she pronounced them both innocent, and they were discharged. The search proceeded without any relaxation, and soon it was positively learned that the name of the guilty negro was Ed Coy, and that he had gone north towards Little River county, Ark.

Several posses at once went in pursuit in that direction, and on Thursday a negro answering the general description of Coy was arrested and brought here over the Texarkana and Fort Smith railway, and it was at first believed by some that he was the guilty party. After a close scrutiny of his features, however, Mrs. Jewell pronounced him not the man, although the hat and suit of clothes he wore looked exactly like those of her assailant. The prisoner explained this by saying that he and Coy had been together on Sunday and Monday, and at the latter's request they had swapped clothes, Coy saying, of course, that they were after him for some minor offense.

Thursday afternoon bloodhounds were telegraphed for, and they arrived Thursday night from Hot Springs. Friday morning the dogs were taken out to the vicinity where the negro was known to be, but efforts to use them were greatly retarded by heavy rain on Thursday night and Friday. Friday night the prospects for the negro's capture began to look gloomy indeed, it being announced that in all probability he had gotten out of the country, as the trail had been utterly lost.

Saturday morning, however, at an early hour, a message came to the town from W. B. Scott, a farmer living five miles north of town, saying Coy was at the house of Ed. Givens, a negro living near him, and asking for men to come out and arrest him. An armed posse went immediately, but before their arrival the negro started down the road towards town, and was intercepted by Scott and his sons, and held until the posse arrived. It also appears that a posse headed by Noah Sanderson, which had been out all the week, had again struck the trail, and they too came upon the scene after the arrest. About fifty mounted guards attended the prisoner to town, arriving here about 9 o'clock.

Coy was immediately placed under a heavy escort, and taken before his victim, who unhesitatingly pronounced him the man! He was at once rushed back to town and conducted to a room, where a heavy guard, both inside and outside, was placed over him. It was resolved that no action should be taken until all the parties who were out should return. The last of these came in about 2 o'clock, when a consultation was held in the room by the leaders, who decided on hanging as the mode, and Broad street as the place of death. Coy was accordingly led out and marched for the place of execution. Arriving there some one threw a rope, but the 5,000 persons present set up a shout of "Burn him! Burn him!"

Some one at this juncture fired a Winchester, and the excitement became indescribable. Finally the crowd forced the men who held the negro to move north on State Line avenue. When near the postoffice some one who had hold of the rope, which meantime had been placed around the prisoner's neck, attempted to mount a telegraph pole with it. He was unceremoniously seized by the foot by a horseman and dragged to the ground. "Burn him! Burn him!" went up the cry again and again, and it was clearly to be seen that death by fire alone would appease the wrath of the surging multitude.

At this juncture Charles M. Reeves, an old citizen, mounted an elevation and besought the crowd, if they were determined to burn the wretch, for the share of their wives and children to take him outside the city. This appeal had the desired effect, and the cry was turned to "Out of town with him. Burn him! Burn him!"

The route to the suburbs was then taken, and when just over the Iron Mountain railway track, in front of a low, level opening, a halt was made. A single stump, about ten feet high, seasoned and strong, stood alone in the center of this spot, and thither the wretched negro was dragged. Another man who favored hanging began climbing the stump, but twenty leveled shotguns made him descend in a jiffy.

Without more ado, the negro was then made secure to the stump with iron fastenings, and kerosene was poured liberally over him. A shout went up, "Let his victim apply the match; let Mrs. Jewell set the fire."

In response to the call Mrs. Jewell emerged from the crowd, and her appearance was greeted with cheers which almost shook the ground.

Pale, but determined, and supported on either side by a male relative, the little woman walked to the place of execution, where her assailant stood pinioned, struck a parlor match, applied it to the wretch in two places, and stepped away. In a few moments the doomed darkey was a sheet of flame, writhing and groaning in his horrible agony. Death resulted in about ten minutes. The crowd which actually witnessed the burning could not have been less than 4,000, and was probably 6,000.

Only about twenty minutes before Coy was led out to execution a reporter was accorded an interview with him. The negro said he believed that he was going to be put to death, but was innocent of the crime. His denial, however, was given in such a manner as carried conviction of guilt with it.

While the event is confessedly a horrible affair, it is justified by a large majority of the people of this section, on the ground that a desperate disease requires a heroic remedy, and that hanging has not as great horror for the average negro as death by fire.

ANOTHER NEGRO BURNED ALIVE. A Colored Man and Woman Pour Rosin Over Him and Set It on Fire.

RALEIGH, Feb. 22.—The mystery which surrounded the horrible death of Miles Toomer, a young negro, at Hillsboro, last Monday night, has been solved. On Monday night last Toomer was found in the street with his clothing all ablaze. The fire was extinguished, but Toomer was so badly burned that he soon afterward died.

After the fire was extinguished it was found that some grass near by was also on fire, and that some one had been lying in the center of the burned spot. From this clue detectives have worked, and have just ascertained that Lewis Ruffin and Alice Cotton, both colored, had poured rosin over him and then set him on fire. The guilty persons have been jailed. There is great indignation over the crime.

BAKERS AND CONFECTIONERS. How the Business Pans Out in Ohio Shown by the Labor Bureau.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 22.—Labor Statistician McBride has issued a table showing the investments, profits, etc., of the bakery and confectionery business of the state. It is as follows: The cost of materials, $1,704,351, added to $432,712, the amount paid in wages and salaries, make $2,137,063, the entire cost of production; then deducted from $2,567,644, or the whole value of product leaves a net profit of $430,581 or 52.66 per cent. of the whole capital invested.

The capital invested equals $703.92 per employee.

By deducting the cost of materials from the value of product, the balance is the combined earnings of capital and labor, of which labor receives 50.2 per cent. and capital 49.8 per cent. (Labor here includes wage earners and salaried officials.)

Of the $2,137,063 entering into the cost of production 20.2 per cent. was paid in wages and salaries, and the balance, 79.8 per cent. was paid for materials.

The total number of employees drawing $432,712 in wages and salaries is 1,017. Of this number 192 are managers, salesmen, bookkeepers and clerks, drawing in the aggregate $153,693 an average salary of $800.48 each. Deducting 192 from 1,017 and $153,693 from $432,712 we have 825 wage earners receiving $279,019 on an average of $338.20 each per annum. Dividing the number of days worked during the year by the number of employees gives a working year of 302 days, which at $338.20 per year gives an average daily wages of $1.12. The average number of hours worked per day is nine and seven-tenths; this gives an average hourly wages of eleven and one-half cents.

Ingalls Joins the G. A. R.

ATCHISON, Kan., Feb. 22.—Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls was Saturday night made a member of John A. Martin post, G. A. R., and Wednesday next will deliver the address of welcome before the state encampment in this city. There was some objection to Mr. Ingalls' application, as his military record is vague, but under a ruling of Commander-in-chief Palmer the application was finally accepted. Mr. Ingalls was judge advocate of General Deitzler's staff on the Price raid, which position he held three months, but he did no actual service.

Will Get the Full Limit.

JACKSON, Mich., Feb. 22.—The trial of Aaron W. Hamacher, which has occupied the attention of the circuit court the last week, was ended Saturday, the jury bringing in a verdict of guilty. Hamacher was a keeper at the state prison and was convicted of furnishing clothing to several convicts and assisting them to escape. He will probably be sentenced to the full limit of the law—seven years in state prison.

Not Guilty.

COVINGTON, Ky., Feb. 22.—A few weeks ago Richard Gray shot and killed Stephen Grogan in the office of the city treasurer here. Gray accused Grogan of deceiving his daughter under promise of marriage, which Grogan admitted, and offered to settle with money. Gray was tried for the murder, and the jury Saturday afternoon acquitted him after being out fifteen minutes.
